Introduction

“The Engager” is the newsletter of the Gage Foundation. The overall goal of the Foundation is to educate the general public in the work of Matilda Joslyn Gage, “a progressive visionary of women's rights and human liberation” (“Mission”). Gage was a contemporary of Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony and her Fayetteville, NY home was purchased by the Foundation in 2002

Five indexes have been composed for use with the seven existing issues of The Engager (February 2001-Spring 2006). The indexes were designed for several audiences and may be posted on the website of the Foundation with the accompanying newsletters. The audiences considered in the creation of the indexes are:

- Current members of the Foundation
- Potential members of the Foundation
- Researchers
- Teachers
- Students (all age groups)
- General interested parties
- Editors and contributors to the newsletter, past and future.

Different levels and types of information can be located with the use of each index. A brief description of each index follows.

The Subject Index: This index is at the highest topical level. The terms indexed point the user to significant foundation activities and funding sources. Issues of historical foundation significance including its organization are also found here. Although the newsletter is primarily concerned with the foundation and not Matilda Joslyn Gage herself, several references are made to her beliefs in the publication. Locators for Gage’s political views and ideology, when mentioned in the newsletter, are contained in this index. A thesaurus was developed for the language used in this index for a controlled vocabulary in the event that the foundation wishes to continue the index for future issues.

The Events Index: This index leads the user to references to all events mentioned in the newsletters. Many of these are fundraisers or educational programs presented by the foundation. Others are historical references. Since the business of the foundation is to promote recognition of Gage, many articles concern mention of her at national conferences and other venues. This index contains entries for these events as well.

The Photo Index: The first pictures appeared in The Engager in 2003. With the idea that a user may be searching for a photo of the Executive Director, the Gage home, or Matilda Joslyn Gage herself, a separate photo index was created. By consulting this short index, the user can see all the photos available. For ease of use, however, when a corresponding picture appears for an entry in any of the other indexes, a “P” appears after the locator for that entry as well in all indexes.

The Name Index: In addition to events, there are many references to names of people, places, and things in the newsletters. Significant in these entries are the references to Oz and L. Frank Baum's creations. This index is useful for locating individuals in the foundation organization when their name, not title, is known as well as significant contributors to events. Volunteers, when profiled, appear in this index as well as the donor index which follows.

The Donor Index: A few of the issues contain lengthy lists of names of donors for specific events such as the annual auction. One issue includes all patrons who contributed to the purchase of the Gage home. There are also many lists of names of volunteers. A third type indexed here are organizations which funded grants for the foundation. This separate index was created for three reasons: to contain the length of the other indexes; to direct the donors/volunteers to the place their entry can easily be found; and to compose a list for the Foundation of all donors of the past for future use. Volunteers are considered donors in this case as they've donated their valuable time.

The Engager Donor Index

This is a name index of all donors/grantors/volunteers for the various functions of the Matilda Joslyn Gage Foundation. Order is alphabetical. Organizations are listed in full name order. Individual names are listed last name first. When two people of the same last name have contributed together, their names are listed together once. Locators are the issue (season, month) followed by the year (yy), page number is preceded by a colon.

A few of the issues contain lengthy lists of names of donors for specific events such as the annual auction. One issue includes all patrons who contributed to the purchase of the Gage home. There are also many lists of names of volunteers. A third type indexed here are organizations which funded grants for the foundation. This separate index was created for three reasons: to contain the length of the other indexes; to direct the donors/volunteers to the place their entry can easily be found; and to compose a list for the Foundation of all donors of the past for future use. Volunteers are considered donors in this case as they've donated their valuable time.
